UTILITY PROBE
MORE THOROUGH
THAN EXPECTEDFederal Trade Investigators Surprise Senate by Painstaking Work on JobBOTTOM OF INDUSTRY Will Carry on Probe Even if Requests for Extra Funds
Are Not HeededBY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1928, Post Pub. Co.
Washington — The Federal Trade Commission's investigation of the public utility business, is much more thorough than was anticipated by members of the Senate.

Although the investigation is scarcely two months old, the investigators have gone at the job painstakingly and in an effort to carry out literally the mandate of the Senate. The request for extra funds which was acted upon by Congress but has not yet been passed, is a measure of the importance of the investigation. It is apparent that irrespective of the appropriation, the trade commission intends to carry on and go to the bottom of the industry.

Judge Robert Healy, chief counsel for the commission, has been examining witnesses while Commissioner McCullough has been presiding. Both have been giving the closest attention to every detail. The testimony already has been taken. Some of the senators like Mr. Walsh of Montana, feel that not enough attention is being given by the press to the hearings and hence from time to time, speeches will be made in the Senate calling attention to various points brought out before the trade commission.

ONLY ONE PHASE
Thus far the commission has covered only one phase, namely, the efforts of the utilities to bring their side of the story to the attention of newspapers, colleges, schools and all institutions. In fact, that are interested in the formation of public opinion. Practically every form of publicity that has been used by the utilities has been inquired into and a definite list of expenditures has been compiled by time, merely recording the utility company financial operations have been examined.

There is every indication that the investigation will last far beyond the June elections and that a comprehensive report will not be ready until the end of this year, but this depends entirely upon the speed with which the material can be assembled but there is no purpose evident to get through in a given time. The Senate did not ask for the report at all, and it is expected that the report will be furnished as the hearings progress.

The utility industry itself originally thought that it favored a scientific investigation and preferred the Federal Trade Commission should make it. In the Senate this has looked upon as meaning a perfunctory investigation, although the trade commission has pleasantly surprised the opponents of the utilities by going into the subject thoroughly and impartially.

THREE KILLED
IN WARSAW
MAY BEGINSTrouble by Communists in Four European Capitals
Marks May Day Observance(By the Associated Press)
Trouble by communists accompanied in one case by fatalities, marked the celebration of May day in four European capitals but elsewhere the parades and demonstrations of labor had passed off quietly up to early afternoon.

Three were killed in Warsaw when socialists tried to prevent communists from joining their parade.

Communists in Vienna made a fruitless attempt to storm the jail where Bela Kun, the Hungarian communist is confined. Ringleaders were arrested.

In Sofia police intervened and dispersed socialists and communists who attempted to hold forbidden outdoor meetings.

Eighty four arrests were made in Paris of persons alleged to be interfering with workers who did not join the numerous strikes called the "Red belt," but no important disturbance took place.

In Brussels, communists posted appeals to the soldiers to join the Russian revolution. The Belgian police were particularly alert and nothing unlawful happened.

Celebrations in Berlin and other German cities were peaceful as were also those in London.

Moscow, the seat of communism, staged a great military show, the biggest since the revolution.

Apart from the arrest of 36 persons for disorderly conduct May day passed off quietly in Japan. This lack of trouble is considered largely due to the recent rounding up of extremists by the police.

GOVERNOR AGAIN ASKS
FLYERS FOR WISCONSINMadison — (AP) — Governor Fred R.
Zimmerman Tuesday sent a second telegram to the German embassy requesting that agency's cooperation in sending the Bremen trans-Atlantic fliers to Madison. A previous telegram was answered favorably by German Ambassador von Frittwitz, and this one addressed him. The governor urged again that von Frit-witz take every step possible to have the fliers visit Madison if they make a western tour. He advised the German ambassador that he had seen in press reports that the German-Irish crew might come to Chicago and expressed the hope that they would come to Wisconsin from there.POLICE HUNT ROBBERS WHO USE HYPODERMICSBeloit — (AP) — The police here were searching Tuesday for two robbers who Sunday night invaded the home of Mrs. Roy Bursinger of Beloit, administered a hypodermic which rendered her partly unconscious and then ransacked the house, obtaining only two dollars.

Mrs. Bursinger answered the door bell and was confronted by the two,
one of whom operated the hypodermic needle while the other held her.
She said she believed one of the robbers was a woman dressed in man's clothing.

Lake Navigation ChannelsWashington — (AP) — The deepening of navigation channels of the Great Lakes to a 23-foot depth at a cost of $24,000, 000 was approved Monday by Major Jadwin, chief of army engineers, in a report submitted to congress.

The report, which was referred to the house rivers and harbors committee, is expected to meet with that body's approval within a few days and is expected to be the basis of a rivers and harbors authorization bill. Chairman Dempsey of the committee indicated that he hoped to present the bill to the house next week and obtain immediate action on it.

In his recommendations, General Jadwin rejected the proposal by the great lakes shipping interests for a 24-foot channel because "the greatest economy" at the present time would be effected by the recommended depth of 23 feet. The report declared, however, that the "correspondence between the United States and Canada on lake channels and the St. Lawrence waterway indicates the possibility that a depth of 27 feet or even greater may be required."

SINCLAIR TALKS

Breaking a long silence which he has maintained throughout his trials
for criminal conspiracy in the Teapot Dome lease and the long senate investigation, Harry F. Sinclair told his story Tuesday to the senate Teapot Dome committee. He said he received money after the famous Teapot Dome oil deal but that his interest in the deal was to protect the right of his company.DEFER TRIAL WHEN

Become Ill in Medford
CourtroomMedford — (AP) — The shadow of illness, falling over the Medford courtroom, has resulted in indefinite postponement of the murder trial of Steve Kahan, Taylor farm, charged with slaying Steve Shewczyk.

Harry Shewczyk, 11, a witness to the shooting of his father became suddenly ill with pneumonia in the courtroom as the trial opened Monday, and was taken from the courtroom to the Medford hospital. His sister Eva, believes ill with pneumonia a few minutes later.

Judge G. N. Risjord, presiding, postponed the trial indefinitely view of the fact that Mrs. Shewczyk is not well.

An attempt to disqualify district attorney T. W. Andresen as prosecutor was made immediately after the case opened Monday. Herman Leight, defense counsel, objected to the disqualification of the district attorney's participation in the case on the ground he was attorney for Mrs.
Shewczyk in probating the slain man's estate and therefore could not act in an unprejudiced manner.

The judge said that Andresen could continue as prosecutor but would have to withdraw from the probate matter.
This he agreed to do.

bridges have been carried away.

DESIROUS OF
HAVING PEACE
NATION SAYSPromptness of Reply, With French Plan Also at Hand, Pleases KelloggWashington — (AP) — With a declaration that "this new guarantee for the maintenance of peace must give a real impulse to the efforts for carrying out of general disarmament," Germany has agreed to the American proposal for a treaty among the world powers renouncing war.

Her answer, made without reservation or qualification, was given in a note to the United States under date of April 27 and made public Monday night by the state department.

The promptness with which the German government replied to the American suggestion, well pleased
Secretary Kellogg and other officials.

They were particularly gratified with the reply in view of the fact that the proposal of M. Briand embodying France's ideas for a renunciation of war treaty.

Declaring Germany "welcomes most warmly the opening of negotiations for the conclusion of an international pact for the outlawry of war," the note said that while the country's League of Nations and Locarno treaty obligations must remain inviolable, nothing was seen in any pledges "which could in any way conflict with the obligations provided in the draft treaty of the United States."

"On the contrary," it added, "it believes that the binding obligation not to use war as an instrument of national policy could only serve to strengthen the fundamental idea of the covenant of the League of Nations and of the Rhine pact."

Germany agreed with the United States and France that the "ultimate goal must be the universality of the new pact."

The note said that the two main ideas living at the bottom of the latest of the French foreign minister and the resulting proposal of the United States "correspond completely with the principles of German policy."

"Germany has no higher interest," the note continued, "than to see the possibility of armed conflicts eliminated and a development assured the life of nations which would guarantee the peaceful settlement of all international disputes. The conclusion of a pact such as the United States has in view would certainly bring to nations a good deal nearer to this goal."

Acceptance of the American proposal, the note said, was decided upon in the belief that it would not "put in question" the sovereign right of any state to defend itself.

AUTHOR OF GREEN HAT
WEDS SERB COUNTESSCannes, France — (AP) — Michael Ar-
ten the novelist and Countess Atlanta Mercere were married in a five-minute civil ceremony Tuesday at the British consulate.

The ceremony was followed by a religious ceremony at the Greek Orthodox church of the Grillon club in Washington.

The witnesses were Princess Karageorgievich, formerly Mrs. H. Pratt of New York, the bride's grandmother
Mrs. Henriette von Pfaff, her mother, Edward Montgomery and Leonardo Mercere.

The groom who is of American origin, registered his father's name as Sarkis Koujoundjian, occupation
"shipper."

The wedding of the brilliant author of the "Green Hat" and other books whose wife at modern level and marriage has caused around the world, the beautiful young woman who is a descendant of Serbian royalty, was one of the final events of the season for international society on the Riviera. Scores of people remained for weeks in order to be present.

SOUTHERN FORCES NOW
OCCUPY TSINAN HOMESShanghai — (AP) — The American Presbyterian mission at Tsinan, capital of Shantung, wired Tuesday:
"The southern forces (Nationalists) have occupied Tsinan. There was no trouble and the situation at present gives no cause for concern."

The southern forces have been gradually closing in on Tsinan where fall of the Nationalist headquarters was announced prematurely last week.

In the meantime, the American,
British and Japanese moved to repatriate their citizens and advised them to evacuate the threatened city.

Most Americans and Britons left, the majority going to Tsin-tao.

Comrade Of Many FlightsWashington — (AP) — Barely a year old but rested little between flights equal in distance to almost twice around the earth, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's famous "Spirit of St. Louis" remained under strict guard at Bolling field Tuesday awaiting placement alongside other non-military works in the Smithsonian institution.

The great silver plane that blazed the first aerial passage connecting the North American and European continents May 21, 1927, and since then has raised its mileage to more than 40,000, made its last long hop Monday when Lindbergh, its lone pilot in all its great voyages, flew here from St. Louis. The 735 miles was covered in four hours and 58 minutes.

Coming down gracefully at its last airport shortly after 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, "We" found 30 army planes in the line at Bolling field, as it ready to receive an honored guest. Two other planes stopping here en route to Langley field for maneuvers flanked her as she approached the landing and swept aside
as she planned to earth.

Lindy, wearing a gray suit and flying helmet, then taxied the ship to a hangar, sat still a moment as if reluctant to part with his friend of the heights, and then gathered some baggage, including a blue sweater, before climbing out.

After posing for photographs, Lindbergh walked slowly around the plane and all he could be heard to say was, "Yes, I am sorry." He told those standing by that while the ship had flown more than 40,000 miles, it easily could "carry on" for another 40, 000.

Two enlisted men took up guard duty beside the "Spirit of St. Louis,"
they were Private Philip H. Mackenzie and Sergeant Roy W. Hooe, chief mechanic at the field.

Hooe, who had directed the care of the plane on many of its trips to Washington, stood by the craft for several minutes without saying a word. Close to him was W. N. Spie-ler, of Baltimore, who has been installing night lights on Lindbergh's new Ryan monoplane, who broke the silence with a plaintive:

"The old girl flies no more."
"None," Hooe returned slowly.
"This is her last. I hate to see her go."

"Boy," Spieker said, "We sure hated to see her go, too. You can believe that."

Party For Blacklist

Speakers to "Make World
Safe for Humor"New York — (AP) — A "Blacklist party" to be attended only by those whose names have been blacklisted as speakers by the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Keynotes of America will be held here on May 9.

Invitations signed by Clarence Darrow, Morris Ernst, Arthur Garfield Hays and Frieda Kirchweg, read in part:

"We notice that your name appears on the list of honor drawn up by the Daughters of the American Revolution and their allies, the Keynotes of America. Some call this honor roll a blacklist. It includes Universities, socialists, communists, ministers, radicals, Republicans, editors, newspapers, lawyers most of us, in fact.

"Members of your family may come.
We assume them to be at least slightly tinged from association with you."
"Yours to make the world safe for humor."

The affair will be held at the Level club and addresses will be by Clarence Darrow, Art Young, Dorothy Parker,
McAllister Coleman and Heywood
Brown.

Madison — (AP) — Prof. E. A. Ross
University of Wisconsin, Tuesday made public his invitation to the "Blacklist party" to be held by those listed as unfit for speakers by the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Keynotes of America.

Prof. Ross answered the invitation by saying "the eleven hundred miles between here and the Level club forbid my attending. I am delighted, however, with the idea and hope it will become a familiar annual event. Like the banquet of the Grillon club in Washington."

"Let the public make an annual comparison of the bright and civilized blacklists with the long-haired torches and patriots."

President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin has received an invitation to the blacklist party, but said he was unable to accept. Alexander McKeljohn, former president of Anhew college, and now director of the Wisconsin experimental college, who is also on the blacklist has not yet received his invitation.

Art Young, New York cartoonist, who is scheduled to speak at the party,
is a former resident of Monroe,
Wis.

IOWA WOMAN TELLS OF SLAYING OF HUSBANDSioux City, Iowa — (AP) — Confession
to the slaying of her husband, Fred Ulrich, was made Tuesday to city detectives by Mrs. Nettie Ulrich.

Mrs. Ulrich was arrested late Monday when her husband's body with a bullet hole in his chest was found on a bed in her home. Monday night
she told conflicting stories to investigating officers, first admitting that she fired the fatal shot and then repudiating the story.

FLYERS MARVEL
AT RECEPTION
FROM AMERICAGreeting in New York Only Surpassed by That Given
Lindy on His ReturnNew York — (AP) — Three smiling aviators from across the Atlantic were elated Tuesday over their second big storm.

Their procession through a storm of ticker tape, torn pages of books, wastepaper and confetti thrown from skyscraper windows was a reminder of the blizzard through which they won their way to Greenly island.

As Captain Koehli said in a brief speech from the stage of the winter garden Monday night:

"The storms we encountered on our flight across the Atlantic were the worst I have ever seen. I have never before seen a snow storm such as the one we saw at Greenly island. However, the storm of enthusiasm we have seen in New York is the biggest storm yet."

In this the German captain was seconded by his flying companions,
Major James Fitzmaurice and Baron
Guthner von Huenefeld.

The Irish major described New York's reception as a better show than any he had ever seen in Rome.

"It would be impossible to see the like of it anywhere in Europe," he said. "I used to think that this was the land of 100 per cent business efficiency and the almighty dollar, but I know differently now. Dollar-loving and the enthusiasm you have shown us Tuesday don't go together."

The reception accorded the three fliers was only surpassed by that given in Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh upon his return from his flight to Paris.
2,500,000 AT PARADE

Police estimated that 2,500,000 persons had witnessed the parade; that 1,500 tons of torn paper had been thrown, which required 1,200 men and $10,000 to clean up, and that 6,000 police were on duty keeping the huge crowds in order.

The Lindbergh reception was estimated to have been witnessed by 4, 000,000 persons, 1,800 tons of papers were thrown and 8,000 police were on duty.

Monday day was unprecedented for the playing of "The Weir" and "The Green" and "Die Wacht am Rhein" and so far as recorded it was the first general doffing of hats for the German anthem since the World war.

to wait for interminable hours while

to join were decorated and applauded,

FREE RENT, TAXES NOT ENOUGH TO MAKE 774 ACRE FARM PAY

Michigan Senator's Experiment With Show-Place to End With Auction

Pontiac, Mich.—The two practical farmers who undertook to farm the 774-acre estate of Senator James Couzens near here, getting their rent free and their taxes paid, have given it up because they couldn't make a go of it.

Such is the surprising finale to a unique experiment in practical farming, that has been watched with great interest by the farmers and agricultural experts.

It was begun 18 months ago when Senator Couzens chose Frank and Mark Williamson out of more than a thousand applicants to take over his farm and convert the over-encumbered losses into an appreciable profit. Both boys were well equipped for the job. One of them, Frank, had been raised on a farm and graduated from Michigan State College. The other had been a practical farmer all his life.

The experiment in tenant-farming so great an estate as this was to last five years. But an auction sale of the stock and equipment put on the estate by the Williamson brothers is to curtail this agreement by the end of this month.

Yet this test was by no means a failure, if the word of either party to the deal is accepted. Senator Couzens, previous to this agreement, figures he had been losing as much as $35,000 a year in the operation of his estate, which he calls Wabek Farms.

NOT A PAYING BUSINESS
Under the Williamson operation, however, he reports the boys cleared about $9000 in their 18 months there, and all it cost him was $3000 a year in taxes and the rent he might have collected for the use of the farm.

But it was not a paying business proposition, and the boys look upon the venture as impractical from the viewpoint of farming. It is a great show-place not far from Pontiac and only 25 miles from Detroit, situated on a main highway.

"We haven't failed in the operation of Wabek Farms," Frank Williamson declares. "And the relations between the senator and us are of the best. But Senator Couzens wants his place kept up as a show-place and we can't afford to pay a force of men to have this done. We have farmed the farm as farmers, not as millionaires."

THOSE CURIOUS TOURISTS
"We have worked the farm with six regular farm hands and a much larger crew during harvest time. The farm is a show place and would maintain any good farm of this size. But we can't keep a staff as guides for interested spectators on the estate, and make money."

The main argument against this experiment, as advanced by Frank, is its over-capitalization. For example, the $125,000 now here.

"Whoever built this farm for Senator Couzens apparently wanted to design something showy and different," says Frank. "The stanchions for the cattle open into separate compartments so that each has to be cleaned separately instead of being put so a horse could be turned down the row and fed through all at once. This feature alone necessitated much more labor than open troughs would."

INVESTED $17,500
The Williamson brothers say they invested about $17,500 in cattle, sheep, hogs, horses and equipment for the farm. They had an estate of 774 acres to work, 500 of which are tillable. When their property is disposed of at auction, they believe they will have operated the place with a profit, although they are reluctant to put this at the figure set by Senator Couzens.

If the boys had had to pay rent and taxes, however, they would have lost between $15,000 and $20,000 for the 18 months they farmed the farm, in the belief of the senator.

Despite the wonderful conveniences at the farm, the boys met with difficulties with Pontiac health authorities and with Couzens himself. At one time it is said, health officials confined the milk from the Williamson cows exceeded the permissible bacterial count. The boys denied this, saying the count was unusually low, due to the clean equipment and modern methods used at the farm.

THE CAPITALISTIC FARMER
But Senator Couzens himself disagreed with them on the standards of cleanliness maintained at Wabek Farms. Although the boys said they were keeping the place clean "according to farming standards," Couzens maintained they didn't suit him.

"It is impossible for a capitalistic farmer to reap the usual agricultural benefits," is Frank Williamson's parting comment. "A large part of the benefit from the farm comes from shelter, fuel and other necessities. Property built up with high-priced buildings and show equipment will not give those returns to either tenant or owner."

Even their close proximity to the big markets of Pontiac and Detroit failed to make their venture profitable.

"Now speculation is rife as to what Senator Couzens will do with his farm. At present he refuses to give it any attention, at least until Congress adjourns."

"But I will never attempt another such plan," is his conviction.

TO SELL 100 COWS
The brothers have 100 head of milch cows and scores of sheep and hogs. These will be disposed of at the auction along with their tools and other equipment. Their herd of feeding cattle will be shipped to pasture for the summer. They have not decided yet what they will do after the sale, although both say they have received several luring offers to manage farms.

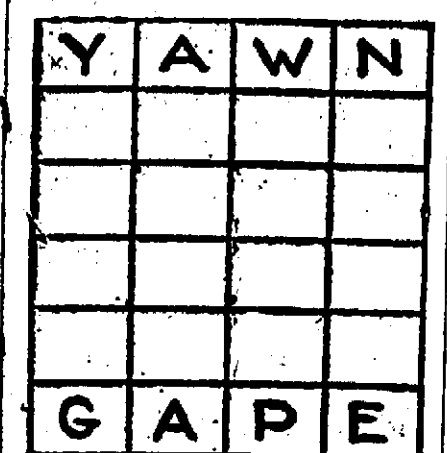

Frank maintains that farming is a paying proposition when done properly.

LETTER GOLF

FOR SPRING FEVERITES
Here's one for that tired feeling so prevalent this time of the year. The letter golf editor says you can go from YAWN to GAPE in five steps. Perhaps you can do better than that. One solution is on page 9.

THE RULES

- 1.—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
- 2.—You can change only one letter at a time.
- 3.—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
- 4.—The order of letters cannot be changed.

CREDITS GROWTH OF INDUSTRY TO DROP IN FARM PRODUCTS

Economist Says Agriculture
Is Not Sharing Prosperity
With Cities

Madison, (AP)—Prof. E. H. Hibbard, economist at the state University here, Monday told approximately 100 persons gathered for the University's state business men's meeting, that agriculture does not prosper along with industry, in line with the slogan "Farm and Factory must prosper together."

"One cause of city prosperity is the cheapness of materials coming from the country," he said. "Thus, city prosperity is a part of the expense of the country. Aside from the city businesses which depend directly on agriculture, such as the implement business, industry is better off because the farmers continue to produce at a low price and furnish cheap goods for manufacturing purposes and food."

He said industry would continue to prosper at a rate out of harmony with agriculture as long as farmers will continue to furnish cheap raw materials.

The theme of the morning's conference of the businessmen was interdependence of Wisconsin business interests. Carl A. Johnson, president of the Gisholt Machine Co., Madison, presenting the issue from the viewpoint of the manufacturer, Carl Herfeld, vice president of the Milwaukee Boston store, taking it up from the viewpoint of the merchant and C. F. Schwenker, state banking commissioner stressing the viewpoint of the banker.

J. H. Puelcher, president of the Marshall Bank, Milwaukee, discussed installment selling during the afternoon conference, following an address by Judson G. Rosebush, president of the Patten Paper Co., Appleton.

Mr. Puelcher said installment selling, as a business process is undoubtedly sound, but it is the method of installment selling that is unsound. He said business needs a formula embodying that which is sound in installment selling—a formula which would include individual cases of consumer credit presented to it.

Dr. Lee Gallowsky, business author and editor, New York, told those who remained for the evening dinner that research is the surest method of reducing the element of uncertainty in business.

The law of supply and demand, he said, contains many variables that only unbiased and cooperative pooling of information can reduce to a formula of business was, and it still remains, in some respects, similar to the practices of the "primitive medicine men, whose prosperity depended on the promotion of the general welfare, but who guarded, in secret, their own institutional arrangements and their methods of exploitation."

A spirit of scientific inquiry is fast superseding this earlier attitude, the speaker declared. About 1900 the co-operative research movement began to take definite shape. Three years ago the movement reached a highly developed form in the organization of the New England Business Men's Council, which became necessary through the intensive competition to which the whole Northeast has been subjected. The speaker gave a description of the working of this research project in England, seeking information of the most searching character that had not before been available was given and applied the lesson to Wisconsin conditions.

Through cost-control studies, applying research to sales, making studies in sales management, creating new designs, simplifying styles and design, the New England business men have entered a new era of prosperity. Stabilization of labor conditions, regardless of depression in other sections, has been accomplished in many places. In all this work of research the universities have had an important part, it was stated.

NEARLY ALL HIGHWAYS ARE OPEN TO TRAFFIC

Practically all highways in the south half of the state are passable and earth and light surfaced roads are improving rapidly, according to a report issued by the state highway department. Roads in the northern section of the state are drying out and will be passable in a short time if weather conditions remain favorable. Federal, state and county trunk highways in the vicinity of Appleton are passable and motorists will have little trouble in making any part of the state. County highways are in fairly good condition, according to A. G. Brusewitz, highway commissioner, and are rapidly being improved by the patrolmen. All metal rails, laid earlier in spring over the muddest sections of the road, have been removed.

CURTAIN COLLECTION OF MAIL ON SATURDAYS

No mail collections will be made from boxes in the residential districts of the city from Saturday noon to Monday morning during the summer months, according to F. F. Wettengel, acting postmaster. Mr. Wettengel said the mail carriers are given Saturday afternoon holidays in the summer and the last collection of mail will be made when they deliver mail Saturday morning.

If a letter is placed in the mailbox after the carrier has passed on Saturday, it will remain there until Monday when it will be picked up and sent out Monday afternoon. Mr. Wettengel pointed out. He therefore cautioned people with important letters to take them to the postoffice.

Collections will be made in the business districts from Drew to Richmond-sts., Saturday afternoon, however, to accommodate the business men, Mr. Wettengel said.

BEG PARDON

Arthur Beschta and Harvey Buss, who were fined $50 and costs in court last week when they pleaded not guilty of spearing fish, are from Horiconville and not Medina, as was stated in Saturday's Post-Crescent. The men paid a fine of $50 and costs together. They were arrested for spearing suckers and not pike, as the story stated.

age Suit Was Unusual and Contradictory

Holding that the verdict in the damage suit brought by Ervin Hoffman, proprietor of Puritan bakery, Appleton, against Dr. J. S. Reeve, and the Employer's Mutual Indemnity corporation, as the result of an automobile accident, was unusual and contradictory, Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday afternoon granted the plaintiff a new trial.

Hoffman sued Reeve for $1,400 and Dr. Reeve filed a counterclaim for $200 but the jury held that both parties were guilty of contributory negligence and it also found that both parties were free of contributory negligence.

The accident occurred on May 18, 1927, at the corner of N. Catherine and E. Washington-sts. Hoffman was driving south on Catherine-st and Dr. Reeve was driving east on E. Washington-st. Both cars were quite badly damaged.

CONSIDER TRAINING FOR VOCATIONS AT FEDERAL CONFERENCE

Noyes Returns from Interesting Meeting at Omaha, Neb.

Many subjects were discussed at the eleventh annual conference of executive officers, state directors, state supervisors, and members of teacher-training staffs in trade and industrial education, according to H. G. Noyes, itinerant coordinator of the pulp and paper industry at the Appleton vocational school, who attended the conference April 23 to 26 at Omaha, Neb.

The meeting was called by the Federal Board of Vocational Education for official state representatives and local supervisors of vocational education. Methods of securing publicity for vocational education programs, was the first subject discussed. Dual responsibilities of local directors, including those in charge of public vocational education for developing trade extension classes to meet the needs of young workers, who are not enrolled in any type of vocational school, also were discussed. Another question considered was, whether it is practicable for high schools in smaller communities to provide, through correspondence schools, vocational courses which could not otherwise be given and whether federal funds could be used for their development.

The basis on which the establishment of cooperative or unit trade classes should be encouraged was discussed and also the ways in which the local supervisor should arrange courses for apprentices already employed and for evening classes for journeymen workers.

The conditions under which it is advisable and desirable for state supervisors to promote foreman training conferences, and the basis on which the local supervisor's work should be evaluated also was discussed.

Mr. Noyes was accompanied by H. C. Thayer and E. E. Gun, Jr., of Madison, members of the state board of vocational education, and R. L. Welch, head of department of teacher training at Stout Institute Menomonie, Wis.

PROHIBITION AGENTS
WAR ON "HOME BREW"

Madison—(AP)—The state prohibition commission is making a vigorous fight on places selling home brew beer, according to R. W. Dixon, commissioner. Within the past several weeks state enforcement officers have confiscated several truckloads of consignments and brew, and destroyed them.

Mr. Dixon is now preparing to send to each district attorney in the state forms to be used in instituting padlock proceedings against home brew saloons. Such action may be taken by the district attorneys either under the state padlock or the federal padlock law.

If they wish to take advantage of the authority which accompanies federal proceedings, the officers have the right to act as federal attorneys in any court of record in the state, according to Mr. Dixon.

The two padlock laws are almost identical in their application, he says, but enforcement officers have found they are more successful in prosecuting under the federal act.

Readers a Booklet On Frame Houses.

Home building time is here, and this booklet of ours—Frame Houses—is just what you need to round out your ideas for that home you have been planning and dreaming of for so long.

To most people the building of a home is an investment of the first magnitude. Therefore plans should be chosen carefully and every detail of construction and cost given thoughtful consideration. Mistakes in building are a source of irritation year after year, while good judgment shown in the beginning will yield full measure of satisfaction.

Let this Bureau add you in your home building. It has for distribution a booklet showing the floor plans and exterior views of 39 modern frame houses. Just clip the coupon below, and enclose six cents in coin or stamps for return postage and handling.

FLYERS MARVEL AT GREAT RECEPTION

ask Mrs. Fitzmaurice. "It was ages before I could greet him," she said. The wives and Patricia Fitzmaurice arrived by liner from abroad after the ceremonies involving their husband had started.

But at last the speech making was over and in full view of the crowd at city hall Frau Elfriede Koch kissed her husband repeatedly while Major Fitzmaurice greeted his wife with one sedate kiss on her cheek. Before this Patsy several times tried to interrupt formalities and clamber to daddy with her teddy bear.

The two women are of extreme contrasting types. "My husband is not very demonstrative in public," she said, Mrs. Fitz-maurice, explaining the difference between the meeting between herself and Major Fitzmaurice and that between the German captain and his wife. And she did not seem the least disappointed when she said it.

JIMMY GETS KISS

Mayor Walker was kissed by Frau Koch. "Why not Mrs. Fitz," he was asked.

"Want me to be used?" he rejoined. Resting in their hotel rooms after the parade the two women admitted they could find few words to express their feelings. "Marvellous" and "wonderful" was the best they could do.

"Patsy and I are just here to greet her father and tell him how proud we are of him," Mrs. Fitzmaurice said. Then in answer to a question: "I cannot say that I was worried about the flight. I have so much faith in James, and besides he has been talking of this flight for six years. I had rather got used to the idea."

"I had faith in God and in my husband's ability as a pilot," Mrs. Koch said proudly. In answer to questions

she said she had married the captain "because he was so jolly" and that his favorite food is "bayrishe knoedel" a concoction of noodles.

GIRL ALONE

ANNE AUSTIN

SYNOPSIS

Sally Ford, just turned 16, had lived in an orphan asylum ever since she was four. Mrs. Stone, the matron, or Stone-face as she was dubbed by her charges had prevented Sally's adoption because she was better than a trained nurse for the "little kids" in the orphanage. Sally's love for the imaginative and play actin, lightens many a dreary hour for the orphans and got her into many a scrape. It was on a cleaning day that Miss Pond, the incurably sentimental woman in the office, came to Sally leading a reluctant little girl by the hand, clipping shears, was beautiful. Now, in early June, it lay in the sun like an immense carpet, studded with round or star-shaped beds of bright flowers. From the front, the building looked stately and grand, too, with its clean red bricks and its big, fluted white pillars. They were the only two orphans in sight, except a pair of overalled boys, their two heads bare to the sun, their lean arms, bare to the shoulders in their ragged shirts, pushing steadily against whirling lawnmowers. "Oh, nasturtiums!" Eloise crowed, the first happy sound she had made since entering the orphanage.

She broke from Sally's grasp, sped down the cement walk, then plunged into the lush greenness of that vast velvet carpet, entirely unconscious that she was committing one of the major crimes of the institution. Sally, after a stunned moment, sped after her, calling out breathlessly: "Don't dash to touch the flowers, Eloise! We ain't allowed to touch the flowers! They'd skin you alive!" But Eloise had already broken the stem of a flaming orange and red nasturtium and was cuddling it against her cheek.

"Put it back, honey," Sally begged, herself committing the unpardonable sin of walking on the grass. "There isn't any place at all you could hide it, and if you carried it in your hand you'd get a licking sure. But don't you cry, Eloise. Sally'll tell you a fairy story in play hour this afternoon."

The two, Sally's heart already swelling with the sweet pain of having found a new child to mother, Eloise's tear-rimmed eyes sparkling with anticipation, were hurrying up the path that led around the main building to the weaving rooms in which Sally was to work an extra hour as punishment for her morning's "play-acting," when Clara Hodges came shrieking from behind the building: "Sally Ford! Mrs. Stone wants you in the office!" she added, her voice dropping slightly on a note of horror.

"What for?" Sally pretended grown up unconcern, but her face, which had been pretty and glowing a moment before, was dull and institutional and sullen again. "They're a man—a farmer man—talking to Stone-face," Clara whispered, her eyes furtive and mean as they darted about to see if she were overheard. "Oh, Sally, don't let 'em dopt you! We wouldn't have nobody to play-act for us and tell us stories! Please, Sally! Alake faces at him when Stone-face ain't lookin' so he won't like you!"

"I'm too big to be adopted," Sally reassured her. "Nobody wants to adopt a 16-year-old girl. Here, you take Eloise to the weaving room with you."

Her voice was that of a managing, efficient, albeit loving, mother, but when she turned toward the front steps of the main building her feet began to drag heavily, weighted with a fear which was reflected in her darkling blue eyes, and in the deepened pallor of her cheeks. But, oh, maybe it wasn't that! Why did she always have to worry about that—now that she was 16? Why couldn't she expect something perfectly lovely—like a father coming to claim his long-lost daughter? Maybe there'd be a mother too—

The vision Sally Ford had conjured up fastened wings to her feet. She was breathless, glowing, when she arrived at the closed door of the dread "office."

(To Be Continued)
The event which changes the course of Sally Ford's life takes place in the next chapter.

Do Children Want To Stay Home Nights?

BY JULIA BLANSHARD
New York — Have a charming living room; concentrate on planning fascinating evenings in it and your boys and girls will stay at home. That, in short, is the recipe for preventing the disintegration of family life in America offered by the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Through its American home department, this organization has made an intensive study of why young folks seek all their recreation outside the home. At the current Parent's Exposition under the auspices of the United Parents' Association of New York they are exhibiting a model living room and offering daily programs to show concretely just how this keeping-the-young-folks-home can be done.

MAKE THEM WANT TO STAY HOME
Women spend hours planning meals. They spend hours on clothes. But they are too apt to think that a happy family life is a thing that just happens, claims the federation. If a mother wants to keep her sons and daughters at home nights, she should put her whole heart and soul into making such agreeable entertainment that they will prefer to leave. For exciting recreation seems more necessary to the young today than ever before.

The living room is really the battleground for the conflict between outside amusement and home enjoyment. Therefore the living room, first of all, should be a fit setting for home-evenings. Recreation and hospitality are the two things a woman should have in mind when she furnishes this room of home.

HINTS FROM CHILDREN
It should be as large as possible and a fireplace is the most cheerful single thing a room can have. This room never should be furnished at one sitting. With the future in mind, a woman should buy only the essentials at first.

A progressive plan for this room's furnishings might leave place for Susan or John to add his suggestions for certain pieces, which would help to develop a pride of ownership in the living room.

The color scheme should be warm and cheery. If the walls are plain, the rug should be patterned and the curtains follow the same design if possible. Comfortable furniture is the first law. Cozy lighting is almost its twin. Every living room should have at least two easy chairs with lamps properly adjusted to tempt one to drop down and read awhile. A piano, a radio or some musical possibilities are necessary. Flowers and some note of life, if only a ticking clock, add much appeal.

Their room at the exposition is all of this. Warm tans, browns and touches of red live in the rich Oriental rug, cretonne curtains and blend admirably with the soft toned walls. The dignified mantel is flanked by two of charming antique double-top tables. Two old crystal candlesticks and an inexpensive mirror are the only mantel ornaments. Every chair in the room has its little end-table or ash-tray table.

Walls are noticeably shy of pictures. This room is the essence of comfort now and, with an eye to the future, leaves extra-entertainment a dated date.

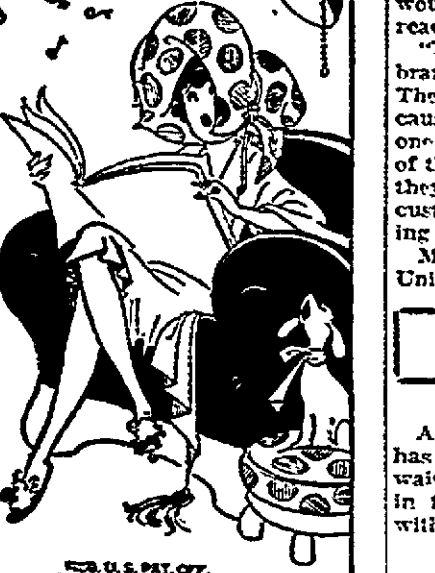

To show the use of this room, the organization is putting on a daily program suggesting entertaining evenings for a family of six—father, mother, three children and a grandmother.

The women who plan the entertainment go back to early American life for some of their programs. They argue, rightly, that in this complex age, some simple entertainment is such a novelty that it is fascinating. Chardons, home talent plays, all the times most adults recall with pleasure suggested for evenings when other young folks drop in.

A PARTY FOR SISTER
An evening of movies made of the "gang" is suggested for the night brother entertainers. For sister there might be a tea for afternoon or a party with games. The old ping-pong set even might prove interesting. So might tiddle-de-winks, authors, word-spelling games and so on.

This home, living room and program, the organization says, is merely one example of the kind of thing it advises. Each mother must work out her own home and her own entertainment. But some kind of concentrated work is absolutely necessary if that great institution, the American home, is to be preserved.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

WHEN both the dwarfs were out sight, the strange man eyed "tinymites." "Well, who are you?" he finally said. "I've never seen you before. Like real nice lads you all appear. Now tell me, do you live near here? If you're sightseeing visitors, I've lots of things in store for you. Then Scouty raised his little head. "We're 'Tinymites,'" he proudly said. "We travel all around the world to see things that are new. We never harm a thing, you see. We're just as careful as can be. We're very glad to meet you, but please tell us, who are you?"

"Why I'm a gardener," said the man. "I raise most everything I can. I have some dandy vegetables if you would like to eat. My old wheelbarrow's right near by. Come on and I will let you try whatever you may care for. It will be a dandy treat."

"Oh, fine!" yelled Scouty. "Lead the way. We haven't had a bite to eat."

"They found the big wheelbarrow full of radishes and such. 'Just help yourselves,' exclaimed the man. 'Now, don't be scared. Eat all you can, but be sure you don't get sick, you'd best not eat too much.' They found tomatoes, nice and red, and nice fresh cabbage y the head. Oh, my, but this is mighty good," said Scouty with a smile. "That proves how good are vegetables," replied the man. "I also have a flower patch where I'll take you after while."

The Times ate till they were through and then their friend said, "All of you hop in my old wheelbarrow and then please sit very still. We'll now go to my big flower bed. O'h, that sounds great," was Scouty said. And then the gardener pushed them very quickly over a hill.

Ambadressess Talks Of Women In New China

Nice—China is like a solidly constructed but empty house now being fitted for the first time with comfortable furniture, says Miss Soumo Tchong, the Nanking government's ambadressess of good-will who has arrived in Europe on a six months tour of the world.

"The furniture we need is education, good legislation, a sense of social responsibility, improved agricultural methods," Miss Tchong said. "We are searching for these things slowly and methodically in Europe and America. It will take years to furnish our house, but at least we have started on the right road."

This small, black haired woman, 35 years of age, talking a mixture of French and English, becomes excited when she speaks of the future of her country. Her training was received at the Sorbonne in Paris, where she took a degree of doctor of laws after completing a book on "The Constitutional Movement in China." She was an official delegate at the Washington disarmament conference, was the first Chinese woman to practice law and for time was president of the Cantonese tribunal of Shanghai.

She has taken an active part in the affairs of the Chinese nationalist party since 1910 although to do it she had to defy her family, members of the imperial Peking government, and break with her fiancé, a high-born, conservative Chinese. She is even supposed to have carried dynamite across China for the nationalists on occasion. Of these rumors Miss Tchong would not talk, however.

China, she says, is an agricultural country whose people are land-owning customs to better them in performing their first jobs.

"I wonder," Miss Tchong said, "if the world realizes that women revolted in China at the same time as the political revolution took place."

"A unique experiment in the emancipation of women is being worked out in China. Men and women started to overthrow existing conditions at the same time and the result was that women found themselves in a position of equality which otherwise would have taken them years to reach."

"There are women in nearly all branches of the Nanking government. They are doing wonderful work because they realize that this is their one great chance to make good. Part of their success is due to the fact that they have no background of age-old customs to better them in performing their first jobs."

Miss Tchong expects to visit the United States enroute back to China.

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Dear Marye:

You know I like to apply theories and philosophies to my own affairs. As I'm going to test this companionship of marriage,

Alan sometimes doesn't want to accompany me to the places I wish to go. The next time he refuses I'm not going to coax. I'll just call up a friend and see what happens.

I think I'll have a chance to try it out tonight. Michello is having a soiree and we're all invited. But Alan says he isn't going because he hates coloratura voices and Michello announced an hour of music with Madame Nobilshesvski. He knew her in Russia. I've never heard of her before and neither had Alan. He wouldn't have refused to go but Mabel happened to mention her being a coloratura and that settled it. Alan said he wouldn't go and sit crosslegged on the floor listening for an hour to a lot of screeching. I don't know where he got the idea of sitting on the floor unless he's been to one of those affairs before and knows more about them than I do.

Florence isn't going because she caught a cold and her nose is red and swollen. I wouldn't miss it even if I have to go alone, but I don't think Michello would object if I brought someone in Alan's place. Just now I can't think of anyone except Billy. That's one disadvantage of marriage. You may have a fairly constant companion in your husband but when he balks where are you? If we haven't got a boy friend we're out of luck. However I think Norman may show up in time to blow over to Michello's with me.

I think it would be nice if I took over some of the flowers Michello sent to Florence. She might have them on the dinner table and if Norman is there I can spring the soiree on him. But first I'll give Alan a good chance to come through with that constant companionship stuff.

I don't think I ought to drag him to something he isn't interested in and I can't see why I should miss an occasion just because he won't take me, do you?

Love,
MARYE.

NEXT: Marye goes alone.

JUST RESPECTING OTHERS OPINIONS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

I was talking to Mrs. Holden today," said Mrs. Foster to her husband at dinner, "and I feel as though I'd run up against a porcupine. I'm stinging all over."

"Really? She's a pleasant-looking woman, and her husband hasn't the least appearance of being hen-pecked. I'd say he looks remarkably happy."

"That's all you know about it, because you're a man," retorted his wife. "I'll tell you what she's like. She never seems to agree with a word you say, and it makes me furious. For instance when I remarked that I thought it would be a bad thing for our club to merge with the Woman's Club, she said she thought it would be a good thing to pool interest and money and get better talent for our lecture days."

"She knows as well as I do, that our club has always been the exclusive in this city and prided itself on its traditions. She just said that to irritate me."

"Then when I remarked that it was foolish for Dorothy Dunbar to open a shop of her own because she had no more taste than a cow, she replied sweetly than she might learn. I can't explain it, but everything I said she contradicted."

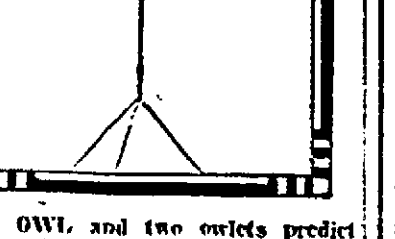

Her husband went on calmly with his dinner, but afterwards he opened up a new subject of conversation. "I had an argument with Dr. Darrow today," he said. "He's at the head of the economics department for women at the state university, you know. We were talking about big business and why women didn't seem to be succeeding."

"I hope you took the affirmative," said Mrs. Foster.

"No, I took the negative," he replied slowly. "I argued that few women allowed another person to have an opinion. Until they learn that, they won't succeed."

Mrs. Foster looked sharply at her husband for a minute and left the table.

Ruffles Return To Lend Feminine Grace To Mode

A distinctively elegant afternoon frock is pictured at the left; it features hand-rolled circularly cut ruffles and a wide girde caught in front with a rose-quartz buckle.

BY HENRI BENDEL

New York—Last year, with straight ups-and downs the modish thing, a ruffle might have been defined as "something that used to adorn a petticoat when there were petticoats."

This year the woman who does not know ruffles as an exterior adornment does not know her styles.

Volants, as the French call them, are singularly expressive of the undulating feminine grace in which the new models revel. They are the perfect trimming for summer, for their aliveness and fluidness have much in common with the breezes that charm us in summer.

From pajamas for the boudoir to gowns for formal Newport and Southampton functions, ruffles are eminently correct for trimming this year. FINDS REPETITION IS EFFECTIVE.

The majority of them are of self-material. Especially this fact is true if the fabric is printed chiffon, georgette, crepe de chine, satin or handkerchief linen.

Ruffles that pose diagonally across a skirt are likely to follow the same line of chic across the waist and then emphasize it on the sleeves. The same is true of curves. Repetition has its value in this particular field. In addition to the geometric line along which ruffles are applied, the kinds, width and fullness of ruffles give endless variety to this kind of trim. The pert one-inch figured ruffles cut on straight lines and gathered very full so they stick out to show their colorful pipings have only distant relation to the svelte, gentle undulating, circular ruffle that is gathered not at all. Add to this the fact that their edges may be notched, scalloped, tucked, lace-edged, or orally bound, and one can see that I mean "endless" variety as ruffle possibilities.

Black flat crepe is one of the most successful materials for ruffle trimming for the reason that unless lace be rich or embroidery just the right sort, this material demands self-ornamentation.

HAND-ROLLED RUFFLES
I show today an import that is extremely simple and yet has distinctive elegance for the reason that it is gathered not at all. Add to this the fact that their edges may be notched, scalloped, tucked, lace-edged, or orally bound, and one can see that I mean "endless" variety as ruffle possibilities.

Hand-rolled circularly cut affairs. Their nonchalance, it seems to me, would inevitably be transmitted to their wearer. A wide girde is caught in front with a rose-quartz buckle outlined in brilliants, the only touch of color.

FOR SUMMER WEAR
I also show one of my new summer ensembles, a printed frock and plain coat of beige crepe that makes great use of ruffles. Rose, beige and black are the dominating colors. Ruffles tie the skirt and curving around the bodice, suggest a bolero. Every ruffle is bound with brown, a which is picked up in the border of the kerchief scarf.

The coat is full length and lined with the printed silk. The hat I choose for this ensemble is a Rebour creation of black, baskin with a rose nigrette and black bow trim.

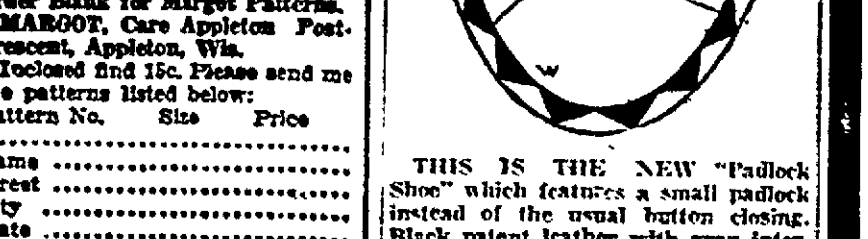

Suggestive of a wheat field under the summer's breezes is another printed frock—both because of the soft tans and greens of its design on its shimmering surface and because of the waving manner in which its ruffles are applied.

SCALLOPED PLEATS
Circular ruffles tie the skirt in a waving, circular manner, follow the same rippling around the bodice and repeat the rhythm around the sleeves. These ruffles are bound alternately in green and in tans, increasing the rippling illusion.

With this a green baku straw hat is worn, smart in its smallness, chic in its trim.

SCALLOPED PLEATS
The lower edges of three 4-inch box pleats in a figured brown and rose moire frock are scalloped while the plain back is as long as the tip of the scallops.

FIREPLACE IN THIS HOME

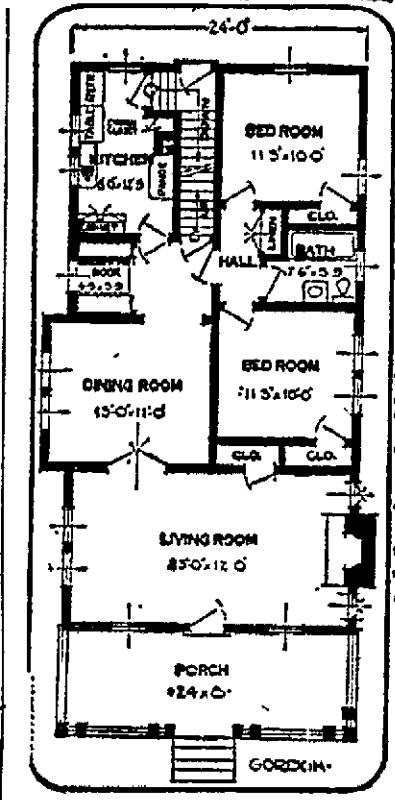

KEEPING house in The Gordon would be like playing dolls again, so cute and small and compact is this charming cottage.

Of course, one could act most grown-up entertaining in such a really large living room for so small a home, a room 23 by 12 — and with a fireplace, too. And there is a real dining room and two sizable bedrooms! The kitchen, with all its little tricks such as hiding its breakfast around the corner in order to make it look like an extra room, is the room of rooms. Here a business woman could bestir herself only slightly and find a meal on the table very soon.

This is essentially a home for a couple both of whom work. Or an ideal nest for a young pair who have only one or two children.

Considering the very reasonable price of this neat house, it has tremendous appeal. Its cost is only from $4500 to $5500.

RAYMOND WALSH HOLDS AUDIENCE WITH HIS SONGS

Raymond Walsh, baritone, presented a varied and interesting program of songs at his recital in Peabody hall Monday night before a large and enthusiastic audience. Mr. Walsh possesses a baritone voice of rich, sympathetic quality and of wide range. His singing is characterized by a warmth and verve that completely wins his audience and his songs are delivered with the careful attention to the interpretative and musical details and a graciousness of manner that carries conviction and satisfies the most critical listeners. His diction is unusually clear and his voice so skillfully handled that the demand made upon it for shading, power and tone color are easily met.

Every group of songs was enthusiastically applauded and so well were his songs liked that he responded with several encores after each group and at the close of the program. The songs by Richard Strauss were sung with rare sympathy and understanding; the group of folk songs were well rendered and of great musical value and interest; the operatic arias from Herodias, his sung in true operatic style and the group of English songs with which the program closed were excellent.

Everett Roudeshus supplied excellent accompaniments and his playing contributed much to the success of the evening.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

What should a player do whose partner has doubled informatively and been redoubled? Consider East's problem in the two situations following:

SOUTH WEST NORTH
1. One Spade Double Redouble
2. One No Trump Double Redouble

In the first South announces at least the minimum strength for a Spade bid. North says, "I have a hand on which I would have bid No Trump initially; but after South's Spade bid I prefer to double." North says (to South), "I have help for you; if you were wholly in Spades, I would bid two Spades; if it were in one other suit only, I would bid it as it is. I am merely announcing my strength for your information." In the second case, after South has bid No Trump, West says, "I have a No Trump also; shall we play that declaration, have you a fore-cord Major or must we play at a Minor?" North says (to South), "Don't be afraid, I can help your No Trump, we have West in between two strong hands and many be able to get a big penalty by doubling their next bid."

In either case, assuming the South, West and North declarations to have been sound, there cannot be many good cards left for East and he must be quite weak; and of course West knows it, after North's redouble. It would be the limit of folly for both East and West to play with a contract of one redoubled. Making the contract would be game even from a love score and would carry a considerable bonus with it; every extra trick would increase that bonus. Either East or West must bid; the question is, who should do it?

Understanding that East's pass would not show satisfaction with the redouble (a redouble cannot be satisfactory to a weak opponent), East should pass when he has nothing longer than a four-card suit and that suit has not any card better than a Jack at the top; but should bid with any suit of five cards or more, no matter how weak, or with any four-card suit headed by a Queen or higher card.

After an informatory redouble of this sort, one player finds himself sandwiched between two strong hands and facing a sympathetic but almost (if not quite) helpless partner. If the partner hold nothing better than a weak four-card suit his attempted rescue probably would make a bad matter worse and he might better pass and let the distressed one rescue himself.

ADVANCE MEETING TO PLAN C. E. CONFERENCE

Officers of the general committee in charge of arrangements for the annual convention of the Wisconsin Christian Endeavor union, and chairman of standing committees will meet at 7:30 Thursday evening at the Y. The committee meeting was originally set for Friday evening but was advanced a day because of the annual meeting of the Baptist church Christian Endeavor. Chairmen of the various standing committees will make reports on the progress of their activities and selection members committees will be completed. Clifford Earle, state extension secretary of the society and Frank Nelson, president, are expected at the meeting. E. L. Madison is general chairman in charge of the convention.

What A Surprise!

Read about it below in

Fair-y Store-y No. 4

What a surprise this will be to Walt, Judie and Junior, pictured above! (Junior has his mouth open.) All three are friends of our friends, Jack and Dotty Norm. Junior is to be a year old shortly, and Dotty is arranging for a surprise shower in honor of the occasion.

A year ago she was one of those organizing a baby shower for Judie, and she insisted that everything must come from the Fair Store's nice baby department. Thus she insured that the quality and the prices were right, and that there were no duplicates.

The girls giving the shower, and Judie — and Junior, too, of course! — were so pleased with everything in the Fair Store's nice Baby Department that this year they are the ones insisting that everyone buy the baby gifts there.

While she is at the Fair Store, Dotty is going to buy a pair of those smart new Fownes silk gloves, a new hat in the new millinery department, and a dress length of the gorgeous new celanese voile that has just arrived.

TENNIS CLUB ALTERS
GOVERNMENT PLAN

President Patton Authorized to Appoint Board of Directors

Kaukauna—A new method of operating the Kaukauna Tennis club was decided upon at a well attended meeting Monday evening in the high school building. The members decided to elect a president and have him appoint seven directors to operate the club for the coming year. Gordon W. Patton was reelected president and he named the following members of the board: Arphose Berens, Miss Betty Biese, Gilbert St. Mitchell, Norbert Gerend, Miss Edna Sager and Miss Helen Eiler. Miss Biese will act as secretary of the club and Mr. Berens will be treasurer. The change was made because the members believe a meeting of a small board of directors could be called easier than a meeting of a large number of members.

The club voted to increase the yearly dues to $4 which will be the same for both men and women members. Last year the men were charged $2 and the women $1.

The local organization will again maintain membership in the Wisconsin State District Tennis association and the Western-Lawn Tennis association. This enables members of the Kaukauna Tennis club to compete in all of the tournaments sponsored by the W. L. T. A. in the middle west.

It was decided that the organization would keep up the municipal courts providing the city council consented to give the club certain playing hours. If this is not agreeable the club will take up its equipment, which is being taken up at present on the municipal courts, and build courts of its own somewhere else in the city.

Plans were started for the first annual dancing party of the club Friday evening. May 11 at the Elks club. Members of the committee in charge of the dance are Miss Betty Biese, Miss Luella Wenzel, Miss Helen Eiler, Miss Edna Sager, Gilbert St. Mitchell and Norbert Gerend.

Give Your Hair a Chance

By Edna Wallace Hopper
Your hair has a really important role in the scheme of attracting. It can be glowing, it can be dull. It can be alive with high lights or it can be continually stifled and colorless.

See for yourself what a happy influence cleanliness is. I wash my hair once a week with this hair shampoo I have been able to find. It cleanses so thoroughly that the half follicles are free to function as they normally should. This brings out the natural coloring, which is most harmonious and flattering to your complexion.

You can get my Frutty Shampoo at any toilet counter. The price is 40 cents.

Madison, —(AP)— Fifty-five banks in Wisconsin were forced to close their doors during the period from 1920 to 1927, G. F. Schwenker, state commissioner of banking told a conference of business men from over the state here today.

During the same period approximately 4,500 banks out of a total of nearly 30,000 in the United States succumbed.

It is apparent, Mr. Schwenker said, that Wisconsin has more banks than is economically necessary.

"The law of supply and demand operates quite as effectively in the number of banks as it does in commerce in general, and one of the problems in Wisconsin is to keep down the number of new banks chartered, and to reduce the number of consolidations and mergers where more banks exist than are economically necessary to provide for the community."

The banking commissioner said that in 1916 the aggregate deposits of state banking institutions was $250,000,000. At the close of 1926 the deposits were $520,000,000, an increase of 107 per cent, while the net increase in the number of banks was but 11 per cent.

The number of building and loan associations in 1916 was 77, with total assets of $16,000,000. By 1926 the number of associations had grown to 182, and the aggregate assets had increased to $182,000,000, an increase of 880 per cent. In the year 1927 the increase was $35,000,000.

"Inasmuch as the larger portion of the banks are in the smaller communities, and their business is very directly connected with lands, it is well to consider the real estate situation in the state," Mr. Schwenker said.

"In 1916 the United States department of agriculture survey, and that of the state department of markets, disclosed that land values in Wisconsin were approximately $975,000,000, against which there were mortgage liens of $354,000,000, leaving a net equity of $621,000,000.

"In 1926, after the deflation, the same sources of information show that the land values of the state had shrunk to $785,000,000, while the mortgage debt had increased to $389,000,000, leaving a net equity of $396,000,000. The decrease in the ten year period was $225,000,000 in land equities, or about one-third.

"When this is coupled with the fact that 67 per cent of our banks are in rural communities, we are convinced that the problem is particularly that of the small town banker."

Roxie Hart, Urson contends, marks a creation for screen heroines which promises to go far in bringing favor to actresses before fans in pictures where sentiment comes second to worthwhile stories.

HERB HEILIG SAYS "WE AMERICANS" IS A GREAT PICTURE

Following is a letter received by H. O. Whelpley, manager of Fischers Appleton Theatre, from Mr. Herb Heilig, director of the Vocational school, regarding the picture "We Americans" at Fischers Appleton Theatre today and Wednesday.

"The film 'We Americans' which is to be shown at your theatre starting Monday April 30th, is one that every home-loving good American should see. It depicts the problem of those who come from Europe to adjust themselves to our ways and the need for a more sympathetic understanding of their problems.

To those who were born in the old country, it will be filled with memories and reminiscences. To those who are born in America, it will have a deeper appeal.

"This is not a war picture, but a great human drama filled with keen humor and deep tragedy.

I had the privilege of watching parts of it filmed in Universal City. I saw the preview of it in the Fischers Theatre at Fox du Lac. I saw it again at the regular showing. I shall not miss it this time when it is in Appleton. It is a great picture.

Sincerely yours, Herb Heilig, Director, Vocational School.

Cute in a Baby-Awful at Three - and it's Dangerous

by Ruth Brittain

Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby, but it is disgusting in the three-year-old and sometimes it hangs on until fifteen or sixteen! The habit may cause an ill-formed mouth or induce adenoids; and it always interferes with digestion. Pinning the sleeve over the hand; attaching mittens, or putting on cardboard cuffs, which prevent bending the arms at the elbows, are some of the ways to stop the habit.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constipation in babies. Give the tiny bowels an opportunity to act at regular periods each day. If they don't at first, a little Fletcher's Castoria will soon regulate them. Every mother should keep a bottle of it handy to use in case of colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, loss of sleep, or when baby is cross and fussy. Its gentle influence over baby's system enables him to get full nourishment from his food, helps him gain, strengthens his bowels.

Castoria is purely vegetable and harmless—the recipe is on the wrapper. Physicians have prescribed it for over 30 years. With each package, you get a valuable book on Motherhood. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper so you'll get the genuine.

A screen heroine "bad woman" has arrived. The weaker sex, having successfully invaded the arts and professions long controlled by man, now threaten to infringe on what heretofore has been a strictly masculine pursuit.

Phyllis Haver introduces this villainous creation as Roxie Hart in "Chicago," a De Mille studio picture now at the Elite Theatre today, Wednesday and Thursday. Victor Varconi is featured opposite Miss Haver.

Roxie Hart, as the "most beautiful jazz murderer," is easier to hate than any conceivable film "bad man," according to Director Frank Urson. She is not the vampire variety, nor the malicious schemer type, Urson explains, but is wholly bad and despicable. The Roxie Hart that Maurine Watkins made the central character of her successful play was a wicked, contemptible ignoramus, but her wickedness is accentuated in the screen version by virtue of the change made in the character of the husband, played by Varconi.

The first screen heroine "bad woman" established her hateful character surely and speedily. She is tested for each and every good quality of a woman and is found wanting in all. First, she is the faithless wife who kills her "angel" because her vanity is offended, and is so distrustful that she mistakes her husband's self-sacrifice for trickery. She glories in the limelight of notoriety and resents sharing the spotlight. She browbeats a devoted husband and she is too ignorant and too much of a

INTEREST PARENTS IN PLANS FOR BOY SCOUT SUMMER CAMP

Five Camp Periods During Summer Will Range from July 9 to Aug. 12

Programs for the valley council Boy Scout camp on the north shore of Lake Winnebago, about three and one half miles east of Waverly Beach on highway 10, July 9 to Aug. 12, will be sent to parents of the scouts and others interested in the camp this week, by M. G. Clark, valley scout executive.

The camp will be equipped with fifteen 10 by 12 foot wall tents, each with a wood floor. Four scouts will sleep in each tent and will be provided with metal cots. A building capable of comfortably seating up to 100 persons now is being remodeled on the camp site. Tables in the mess hall are of a type which can be folded and stacked in a small space, leaving the interior for recreational purposes. Sheltered space and tools and work benches will be provided so scouts can satisfy their "construction urge." Materials for woodwork, archery, leatherwork, head work, plaster casting, art stone pottery, and various other crafts will be provided at a low cost.

A high tower will be built from which life guards can keep watch of swimmers. A large raft with diving towers and spring boards will be provided. At least five boats will be in camp for life guard duty and supervised boating.

According to Mr. Clark, the camp aims to give practical training in leadership to scoutmasters.

ATHLETICS BATTLE WAY TO THIRD PLACE IN A. L. RACE

Take Sixth Straight Win Including Two With Yanks To Fight Way From Depths

Huggins Men Hold Top by Beating Senators as Indians Lose to Browns

Carried along on the crest of a six game winning streak, Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics were entrenched in third place in the American League Tuesday.

After a disastrous start that saw them lose their first four games, they found themselves, bowled over by the New York Yankees in two games, Washington in three and Boston in the opening game of the series at the Hub Monday.

During this string, the Athletics scored 40 runs on 61 hits, made but one error and allowed the enemy only 10 tallies.

Rube Walberg, one-half of the great left-handed team of Grove and Walberg, held the Sox to six hits and fanned a half-dozen, in the Athletics 4 to 1 victory Monday.

Bunched hits off Charlie Ruffing in the fifth and ninth innings accounted for all of the Athletics' runs.

The Yankees retained their hold on first place by giving the Senators their seventh straight defeat at Washington, 8 to 4.

Five errors by Gillis and Reeves, young keystone combination, were material aid for the Yankees.

George Fingers was shut out of the mound in the fifth.

Willy Moore held Washington safe the rest of the way.

Buckeye and Brown were pounded for 14 hits as the St. Louis Browns trounced the Indians at Cleveland 19 to 3.

Blacholier shut out the Indians until the ninth.

Eddie Morgan promising recruit who was hurt in Cleveland's opening game of the season, returned to the game as a pinch hitter and drove in one of the three runs the Indians scored.

Detroit suffered 10 to 6 beating at Chicago as the White Sox hammered four Tiger pitchers for 14 hits.

Red Faber made his first mound start of the year and received credit for the victory despite the fact that he was driven from the mound by a Tiger rally in the fifth.

Bill Cissell, costly Sox shortstop, hit safely in his 13th consecutive game.

BADGERS PUSH ILLINI FROM CONFERENCE TOP

Chicago — (AP) — Michigan had sole possession of first place in the Big Ten baseball championship race Tuesday with four victories and no defeats.

Illinois was knocked from a tie with the Wolverines Monday when Wisconsin scored all its runs in the ninth inning and defeated the heretofore unbeaten Illini, 5 to 2, at Urbana.

By its defeat, Illinois went into a tie for second place with Indiana each having won three games and lost one.

Iowa, gave Northwestern its fifth straight conference defeat at Evansville, 11 to 8, and moved into a tie with the Badgers for third place. Each team has won two games and lost one.

Making five runs in the first inning on two doubles, two singles, a sacrifice, a walk and two Minnesota errors, Purdue won its second game of the conference season by defeating the Gophers, 6 to 2, at Lafayette. Purdue has lost three games and Minnesota has won two.

Purdue was at Chicago for another conference game Tuesday.

ONE GOOD CATCH GAVE ROETTGER CARD POST

St. Louis — Roettger, former Illini athlete and now an outfielder with the St. Louis Cards, literally dove into his job with the Cards this season.

Ray Blades was scheduled as a regular for the position Roettger is playing, but when a trick knee bothered him before the season started, it gave Roettger a chance at the position.

In a pre-season game, Roettger started after a long liner in his direction. He realized he couldn't catch it unless he dove for it. He dove and his catch saved the day for the Cards and also decided Manager McKee to play him regularly.

His play so far this season has been praiseworthy.

SUCCESS AT 17

Out in the far west, the youngsters still take their baseball seriously and the Pacific Coast League always has a youngster or two to interest the major leagues. Among the young leaguers already attracting attention this season is Frank Crosetti, a 17-year-old school boy, playing infield for the San Francisco Seals. He is already tagged for fast company.

RAIN HALTS SCHLAFFER, CAM-SCHULTZ BALL GAME

With the score tied at 2-2 at the end of the third inning the opening round baseball game of the season in Appleton, between the Schlaffer Hardware Co. Inc., 1927 city champions, and the Cameron-Schultz team, runners-up, was called off Sunday afternoon.

The teams met at Wilson field but rain and wet grounds halted the battle, a practice game for both squads.

Don Kranzuch, hurling for the Schlaffers had four strikeouts and had allowed two hits while Joe Mayefski of the Hardwaremen had five strikeouts and allowed three hits. Ray Torrey now got a triple and Lauba a double for the C-S men and Ed Steenis drove in both Schlaffer runs with a single.

The teams will meet again next Sunday at Wilson field.

TWO LAWRENCE TEAMS SEE ACTION SATURDAY

Two Lawrence college athletic teams will take part in contests Saturday, one opening its 1928 spring season. While the Viking track and field team take part in the Hamline university relays at St. Paul, the college team will engage in its first meet, clashing with one of its strongest foes, Marquette university of Milwaukee.

The Marquette team, composed of veterans of last year is the favorite, but the Pipers squad expect to give the Milwaukeeans a hard battle. Two veterans of last year, Pierce and Parker, form the nucleus of the Viking team, Hansen and Krause listed among the best promising of the new material.

The track team will be encouraged at St. Paul by its victory over Oshkosh Normal last Saturday, though it showed extremely weak in several field events and the entire week will be spent endeavoring to strengthen the bad spots.

CHOOSE ILLINOIS MAN FOR MANITOWOC COACH

Manitowoc — A new football coach will have charge of the Manitowoc High school team next season, the board of education, having engaged Mark Sutton, formerly of the University of Illinois, to head the department of physical education. He will relieve Coach Rex John of some work in the athletic department, besides coaching the team.

While at the University of Illinois, he was a member of the football squad and later was assistant to Bob Zupke. It was Sutton who discovered Freesty Peters, the great drop kicker for Illinois. Sutton graduated from the physical education department at the university.

COLD FORCES HELEN TO ABANDON GERMAN MATCH

Paris — (AP) — Helen Wills has caught a cold in the chilly rains of Paris and Tuesday decided to cancel her trip to Germany, after talking it over with her doctor.

The American tennis star needs to take it easy for a week the doctor said.

The doctor added that Mrs. Wills was sure that her daughter would be in shape to go to Amsterdam which will follow the Berlin engagement set for Wednesday and Thursday. Mrs. Wills does not wish Helen to endanger the rest of her European tour for the lack of a few days rest now.

SHARKEY BATTERS OUT VICTORY OVER BRIDGEPORT PRIDE

Delaney, Unable to Stem Ferocious Attack, Knocked Out in First Round

New York — (AP) — The storm of the old Jack Sharkey, furious youngster who once smashed his way to the very door of the heavyweight throne room, has swept again through Madison Square garden.

Like a tornado in human form, the scraggular gob swept out of his corner Monday night and crushed Jack Delaney as if the Bridgeport warrior, himself a disappointed title contender, optimized all the humiliation and heartbreak of defeats that had come to Sharkey since Jack Dempsey knocked him out last summer.

Only one minute and 13 seconds of the first round was the dulled rapier of the north able to last before Sharkey's crushing drive. Almost before the echoes of the opening gong had died, a volley of short hooks to the head dropped Delaney, badly hurt, to one.

Snarling, jittery, tigerish in his ferocity, Sharkey leapt into his wobbly foe, telling him with a looping right to the head. Then as Delaney writhed on the canvas, pulled himself to his knees, and swayed finally to his feet, Sharkey waited, right hand poised.

Pull on the chin, with power sufficient to tell an ox, the rampaging sailor ripped his right uppercut flush into Delaney's twisted features as the trembling French-Canadian, eyes closed, head buried in his chest, stumbled forward.

No fighter could have risen from that final blow.

Down in the resin dust, blood trickling from his mouth and ear, Delaney topped like a tall, statuesque tree of his northern forests, cut off at the base. The force of the blow jutted his red mouth piece half out between his lips, a grotesque picture as Delaney rubbed his face in the canvas, and fought, subconsciously, to regain control of his muscles and numbed brain.

CROWD FINALLY CHEERS
Above the fallen fighter, now still as the referee finished the count of ten, Sharkey snarled, tears of pure ferocity and pent-up feeling rolling down his cheeks. As the crowd of 15,000 roared its acclaim of him after almost a year of boos and hisses, Sharkey turned his face defiantly to them, the wetness still on his cheeks.

Delaney never struck a blow in his own defense. Vainly, after an initial futile stab with a left as the round opened, the statuesque woodsman retreated blindly, arms about his head and body, vainly trying to ward off the shock of Sharkey's attack.

In the crowd about the arena were Baron Huenefeld, Hermann Koehl and Major Fitzmaurice, trans-Atlantic fliers, viewing a spectacle of this kind for the first time.

ORANGE STARS BREAK VALLEY RELAY RECORD

Though Appleton high school's half-mile relay team failed to place in the event in the annual Midwest Interscholastic Relay Carnival sponsored by the University of Wisconsin and held Saturday at Madison, it broke the Fox River Valley conference record unofficially.

The Orange quartet ran the distance in 1:37 and the conference mark as set here by Manitowoc's crack team last year was 1:38.7, 4.7 seconds slower. That same Manitowoc team won the event in the state meet later.

Members of the Orange team are Bob Roemer, Bob Kunitz, Marston, Nohr and Wolfgram. The half-mile at Madison Saturday was run in 1:32.4 a new carnival record.

WINS DECATHLON

Tony Plansky again was styled America's greatest all-around athlete this past weekend when he won the gruelling ten-event decathlon championship at the annual Penn relays.

The former Georgetown athlete, wearing the colors of the St. Alphonsus A. A. of Boston, led a classy field to win an honor he has held twice before.

Another feature of Coach Joseph Shields' internal "sport for every school" program at Appleton high school will be held on Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. when members of the three classes of the school take part in their first annual interclass swimming meet.

The sophomores practiced Tuesday and the seniors on Thursday of this week for the competition.

Events included in the program are the 20 and 100-yard free style races, a breast stroke event, a back stroke, fancy diving and an eight-man relay between classes, each boy swimming 20 yards.

APPLETON BALL CLUB PRACTICES TUESDAY
An intensive practice for candidates for the Appleton baseball club of the Fox River Valley League will be held at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening at Brandt park. The team is beginning to find its batting eye and is starting to hit the pill in midseason form. It will be in good condition for the opener Sunday when Neenah-Menasha visits this city.

Practically every member of last year's team is back in a suit with several new additions bringing the total to 27 at Sunday's practice. Included among the newcomers are a new hurler and two new catchers, one of whom played with the crack Aluminum Goodies team of Manitowoc in the last two years and the other in the Michigan State League.

ONE OF WORST BEATINGS
The drubbing given Walter Hagen by Archie Compston in their recent match is one of the worst ever given a player in an important match. Compston won, 18 up and 17 to play.

EASY FOR THE BABE
Pitching offerings of Horace Lisenbee, Washington hurler, seem to please Babe Ruth. Three of Ruth's home runs this season have been made with Lisenbee pitching.

APPLETON HOST TO VALLEY RELAY MEET

Eight Conference Schools Here for Annual Track Carnival

The second annual Fox River Valley Conference Relay carnival, sponsored by the conference but in charge of Appleton high school sports authorities, will be held here Saturday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock at Whitfield, and it is expected that each of the eight valley schools will have a team entered. The conference holds the meet in a different city each year and the high school in the city chosen is given charge of the event. The first annual contest was held last fall at Manitowoc.

Relays of the meet include four, a half-mile, mile, two-mile and a medley relay of two 220's, a 440 and a half-mile, and several special events, the 100-yard dash, 120-yard high hurdles, shot put, discus, high jump, and broad jump. Whether there will be a pole vault and a javelin throw is being decided this week by questionnaires sent to the various schools.

They were off the list but some schools favor them while others do not.

Mark Catlin, former Lawrence college football coach and a star high hurdler in his day at the University of Chicago, will act as starter for the meet. Last year Appleton high walked off with the special events while the crack Manitowoc runners took every relay event. This year the Orange hope to again take the special event lead with Swede Johnston performing, and the work of the half-mile relay team gives the locals hope for winning at least one relay trophy and possibly two of the four to tie or make sure of high point honors in that section as well as in special events.

KIMBERLY CHAMPS IN FIRST WORKOUT

15 Players Report at Initial Practice of K-C Nine

Kimberly — The Kimberly-Little Chute baseball team got its first real practice Sunday afternoon when about 15 men turned out.

The afternoon was spent in batting practice mostly, with a little infield work. The men looked good especially in batting. Carl Lemmers who hasn't been out for the last couple of years showed up in uniform and sent two balls over the fence top. Lemmers played several years ago with Kimberly as a regular in the infield.

Butch Thein, Charley Schell, George Vander Loop, Clarence Pocaen, Pearly Grub all were out and all looked good both at bat and in the field. Grub is a catcher and comes from Rhineland where he caught last year.

Pocaen was hitting the apple hard and often. His knee bothered him but it should be ready for the game next Sunday against Green Bay.

Manager Marty Lamers ordered practice for every night this week that the weather permits.

The fence will be repaired Tuesday night and the infield will be gone over so that everything will be set for the opening game.

TWO GREATS WITH DODGERS
Brooklyn has two of the greatest pitchers in the major leagues in Jess Petty and Dazzy Vance.

SURPRISES WITH BATTING
Although his fielding was said to be much better than his hitting ability, it has been Chalmers Cissell's batting in the early weeks of the major league race that has created attention.

Newark, N. J. — Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo, N. Y., outpointed Tony Marullo, New Orleans, (10.)

Harrisburg, Pa. — Battling Levinski, Philadelphia, won over Clem Johnson, Denver, (8.)

Steuensville, O. — William Davis, Chariot, Pa., knocked out Young Irish, Akron, O., (6.)

SLIGHT FLU EPIDEMIC FELT AT NEW LONDON

New London—The prevalence of a light flu epidemic in this city is causing much irregularity among school classes. Many adults also are ill. The absence of 30 students from high school last week brought down the attendance mark. There have been no ravages of pneumonia thus far, and, with care, patients are able to shake off the trouble. Physicians advise keeping children affected in bed until all signs of temperature are alleviated, and the same applies to adults whenever the treatment is possible.

WAUPACA SCHOOLS HOLD EXHIBITIONS THURSDAY, FRIDAY

High School Baseball Team Defeated by Iola Thursday, 6 and 5

Waupaca—The annual high school exhibit was held in the high school gymnasium Thursday and Friday evenings. The kindergarten, grades, junior high, high school, and the agriculture department were all represented with notebooks, posters, scrap-books and drawings, showing the work each division has been doing. A Roman Trireme, or Halley ship, was one of the chief features of the exhibit, derivative posters, latin scrap-books, a cross word puzzle, poetic translations of Vergil and a Roman toga and tunic were contributed by the Latin classes.

The citizenship classes displayed a complete survey of Wisconsin, many interesting notebooks, and an original book containing stories told to the pupils about the early history of Waupaca.

The freshman English classes displayed a Shakespearean stage with a Shakespear present, to explain it, notebooks on "Treasure Island," which were exhibited by one of the pilots; and another containing work on "The Lady of the Lake."

Graphs, economics, charts, birdhouses, bookholders, bookmarks, bookkeeping sets, book-ends, and many other things were contributed by the various departments. The moving picture made by Miss Boomer's second grade and the Ringling Brothers circus presented by a section of the fifth grade were unique.

The eighth grade had an original city as their display.

Friday evening a program consisting of three numbers by the band, a nominating convention by the Seniors and a combined program by the junior high school, was given in the auditorium. The numbers rendered by the band were "Indian Boy," Fox, "Torch March," and "March and Serenade." Organ Echoes, an English play, "Till Try," was given by the seventh grade and "Vegetables" by the eighth grade.

At a Junior class meeting recently it was agreed that an informal party would be given May 25 in the high school. Dancing would be held in the gym from 8 to 12 and amusement for those who do not dance will be furnished upstairs.

The physical education exhibition, under the direction of Miss Ellington, will be put on in the high school gymnasium at 7:45 Wednesday night May 2. The following is the program:

Grand entrance, high school girls and school band; singing games, Grades 1, 2 and 3; German Clap dance, Farmer in the Dell (new version); Where Has My Little Dog Gone; Briar Rose; march tactics, high school girls; Want Exercises, high school girls; games, grades 4, 5 and 6; dumbbell rhythms, high school girls; Virginia Reel, Varsouvienne; Indian Club Swinging, high school girls; folk dances, Tantal, Swedish clap dance, Fryskadalspolka, Nickelskomidj, Minuet; tumbling and stunts, high school girls.

Due to bad weather and lack of pre-conference games which had to be cancelled Waupaca was forced to open its conference baseball season at Scandinavia against Iola last Thursday and was defeated 5-6. Luther pitched his first game for Waupaca and came through very creditably, having six strike-outs to his credit. Had it not been for infield errors in the first inning when Iola scored twice, the final score might have been different. Tuesday Manawa plays here and Thursday Weyauvega's picked nine comes to battle the highs.

STOCKHOLDER WANTS RECEIVER APPOINTED FOR SHOE CONCERN

St. Louis Man Charges Mensies Company Is Losing Money

St. Louis—(AP)—Louis Singer, minority stockholder, Monday filed a receivership suit against the Mensies Shoe company, which operates factories at Fond du Lac and New London, Wis.

Singer charges in his petition that S. D. Nichols, president of the Mensies company, is dominating the firm and changing its policies; that Nichols is engaged in a corporate stock selling campaign; that stock is being advertised "extensively and recklessly" and is being sold at varying prices, without regard to values; that shoes are being sold at a loss and that Nichols and other directors are diverting the assets.

In addition to the receivership, Singer is asking for an accounting from the directors and for an injunction to stop the present management from operating the firm.

The company has $750,000 preferred stock and 100,000 shares of common stock of no par value. Headquarters of the concern are at St. Louis.

The company's main plant at Fond du Lac has been moved to Carbonado, Ill., and but little work is being done there at present.

The New London plant is concentrating on the manufacture of army shoes and is turning out 600 pair daily according to A. O. Lemay, superintendent. He said the action of Singer was not likely to affect the New London plant and that the factory would double its present production when sufficient raw material was available.

LOWDEN'S NEW ROLE FOR 1928 IS THAT OF FARMERS FRIEND

Candidate for Presidential Nomination Was Once
"Business Candidate"

EDITOR'S NOTE: This, the eighth in the series of Presidential Campaign Portraits written for The Post-Crescent by Robert Talley, is the last of three articles dealing with the career of ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden. Monday's article will discuss Senator William E. Borah of Idaho.

BY ROBERT TALLEY
Washington—The eight years that have rolled by since 1920 have done more than merely add to the age of Frank O. Lowden.

They have changed him from a business man's candidate for the presidency, to a farmer's candidate—at least, such is the changed color of his campaign.

Eight years ago Lowden was placed before the American public as the efficient business executive, the highly successful governor of Illinois, the man who would keep the wheels of industry turning and bring economy to the national government.

Today Lowden is being placed before the public as the champion of the distressed farmer, the leader of the agrarian revolt, the man whose election would mean the economic salvation of the hard-pressed tiller of the soil.

Lowden is a farmer, and a successful one. His famous Sinsinipi farm on which he makes his home near Oregon, Ill., is a model of agricultural efficiency. In addition, he owns a big cotton plantation in Arkansas and has recently acquired a farm in Texas and another in the irrigation district of the west.

Naturally, any man who can make a success of farming these days appeals to the voters in the agricultural districts, and on them Lowden relies. The fact that he is a "kid glove farmer" doesn't detract from his financial success.

The Illinoisian is a strong advocate of cooperative marketing and of farm relief legislation which would lead to a more economical method of distributing the farmer's surplus crops. He is said to favor the McNary-Haugen bill with the equalization fee included, the latter on the ground that the machinery which it proposes to set up cannot successfully function without a method of apportioning the cost of marketing crops on a national scale.

"Laws," Lowden once said, "will help but they will not bring prosperity to the American farmer. It is clear that the great agricultural plant of our country has been running down at a dangerous pace. The farm population was reduced by almost a half million in 1925. This involves the very life of the nation. There is too much of a discrepancy between the prices the American farmer receives for the things he sells and the prices he has to pay for the things he buys."

"What the American farmer asks is the same right which other American industries now enjoy, through their superior organization. This is to name a price and acquire an organization that will enable him to sell at that price."

Unity of effort through cooperation and organization among farmers will be necessary to achieve this end, he says.

It is reported on apparently good authority that in the pre-Violated days Lowden did not object to a glass of wine with his meals, but the same authority says he has not touched alcoholic stimulants for years. He did not support the 18th amendment, feeling that this was a question that the states should decide for themselves, but now that the prohibition law is on the federal statute books he feels that it is an obligation to see that it is enforced.

Lowden favors a protective tariff, though not at the expense of the farmer. "The proper policy," he says in explaining this somewhat paradoxical stand, "is not to abuse industry by lowering the tariff, but to raise agriculture to the level of industry. That policy cannot be maintained without a protective tariff."

On the question of a third term for the presidency—which is of interest in view of the still-repeated rumors of an attempt to "draft" President Coolidge—Lowden has made his position clear by his actions, although he has kept silent in the present controversy.

When Lowden was a member of Congress he introduced a proposed Constitutional amendment which would lengthen the presidential term from four to six years and limit a president to one term.

He has been quoted recently as saying he sees no reason to change his view of limitation, though he is not quite so sure now about lengthening the term to six years.

Lowden's long and close friendship with Vice President Dawes is said by politicians to be no small factor in his present campaign.

Dawes has resented all rumors that he is supporting Lowden. That is Dawes' emphatic answer to all who approach him publicly on the subject.

But in the undercurrent of political rumor, which ebbs and flows ceaselessly in Washington, there is a tale that these old friends have entered into a "partnership" campaign. In other words, Dawes will continue to support Lowden and then if it develops at the Kansas City convention that Lowden's nomination is impossible, Lowden will, in return, throw his support to Dawes.

How true these rumors are only time will tell.
